

Your First Mysore Class

at AYBKK · Ashtanga Yoga Bangkok

A free guide from Boonchu Tanti

Jamsai, R. Sharath Jois and Boonchu at AYBKK, 2024

What is Mysore style?

- It is self-practice. You move through the Ashtanga sequence at your own pace, with your own breath.
- You are not alone. The teacher walks the room, watches you, and gives you the next step when you are ready.
- Everyone in the room is at a different place. Nobody is watching you. Everyone is busy with their own breath.
- Beginners are welcome. You can start from zero.

Your first morning

- Come early. Tell the teacher at the door: "It is my first time."
- The teacher shows you where to start, step by step. Day one is short. That is normal.
- Just breathe and follow. Long, even breaths through the nose.
- Rest at the end. Then roll up your mat and clean your space.

When

- Mysore: Tue to Fri, 5:30am (1st batch) and 7:30am (2nd batch)
- Mysore: Sunday, 7:00am
- Led Primary: Monday 6:30am and Saturday 7:00am (for students who know at least half of the Primary Series)
- Closed on full moon and new moon days.

Bring and know

- Your own mat and a towel. Clothes you can move in.
- No phones and no photos in the shala. No talking during practice.
- Book your classes in advance. Come at least 4 days a week.
- After practice, clean your mat and the floor around it with the spray we provide.

A note from Boonchu

I began practising with R. Sharath Jois in Mysore in 2008. In 2018 and again in 2024, we welcomed him here in Bangkok.

From his birthday, 29 September, to the day we lost him, 11 November, we open our doors wide to new students.

Come and practise with us.
